

Auburn Leathercrafters

Made in the USA

“At Auburn Leathercrafters, we are dedicated to supplying retail pet shops with the products that sell. You will appreciate the quality craftsmanship of our handcrafted products, using the finest full grain leathers and materials. We believe our customers must be given the best possible service and the best quality products. Most importantly to us, our business ethics and conduct must be beyond reproach and consistent with our faith.”

“We guarantee our products to be free of defects in materials and workmanship. Any product that is misused cannot be guaranteed and could result in harm to your customer's pet. As a responsible pet owner, care must be taken in selecting the correct size and style product. Make sure your staff is knowledgeable on the proper sizing of collars, harnesses, leashes. Feel free to contact us at any time if you or your staff have any questions. As always, encourage your customers to frequently inspect and replace any item that shows signs of wear.”

Leather is a natural product that will last a long time with proper care. Occasional cleaning with leather care products is a good idea and the use of leather conditioners is recommended. As a convenience to you and your staff, we now include care instructions specific to that type of material on most of our products. Following these instructions will prolong the life and appearance of our products.

How to Measure

Even though you can expect some degree of adjustability with your new dog collar, it is important to measure your dog carefully.

If you are satisfied with the fit of your dog's current collar, measure that collar from the center bar of the buckle to the farthest hole. Our collars are sized from the center bar of the buckle to the farthest hole.

Terms to Know

- Buckle-End Collar: A Buckle-End Collar is a collar where the buckle is at the end of the collar's strap.
- Extended-Dee-Ring: An Extended-Dee-Ring pattern refers to those collars where the dee-ring is at the end of the collar's strap.
- Latigo Leather: The word Latigo refers to a type of leather that is tanned in a way that makes it especially soft and supple with use. It is the same leather used for accessories in the saddle-making trade, such as reins and cinches.
- Bridle Leather: Our tan and black leather products are made of Bridle Leather. Bridle Leather is used to make many of our harnesses and collars because of its rich color and ability to withstand harsh conditions and still look great. It is strong, firm, and resists stretching. Bridle Leathers were developed to withstand the stresses and strains that a horse puts its bridle through.

- Natural Vegetable Tanned Skirting Leather: Vegetable Tanning is a process where vegetable materials such as tree bark and other materials are used in the tanning process. The result is a piece of leather that is versatile enough to be used for a variety of applications. Natural Vegetable Tanned Skirting Leather, the leather used to make the best, hand-tooled saddles, pouches, and accessories, is the same leather used for our harnesses and as a base for our red, black, pink, blue, and yellow collars and Leashes.
- Top Grain or Full Grain Leather: The Grain refers to the surface of the leather. Top Grain or Full Grain Leather is the portion of the hide that is the strongest. Because of this nature of the cut, you may see slight variations in the surface that add to the beauty and character of the piece.
